PAID ADS (PPC)

WHAT IS PAY-PER-CLICK (PPC)?

Pay-per-click (PPC) is an online advertising model in which an advertiser pays a publisher each time an ad link is “clicked” Alternatively, PPC is known as the cost-per-click (CPC) model. The pay-per-click model is offered by search engines (eg Google) and social networks (eg Facebook). The most popular platforms for PPC advertising are Google Ads, Facebook Ads, and Twitter Ads.

HOW THE PPC MODEL WORKS

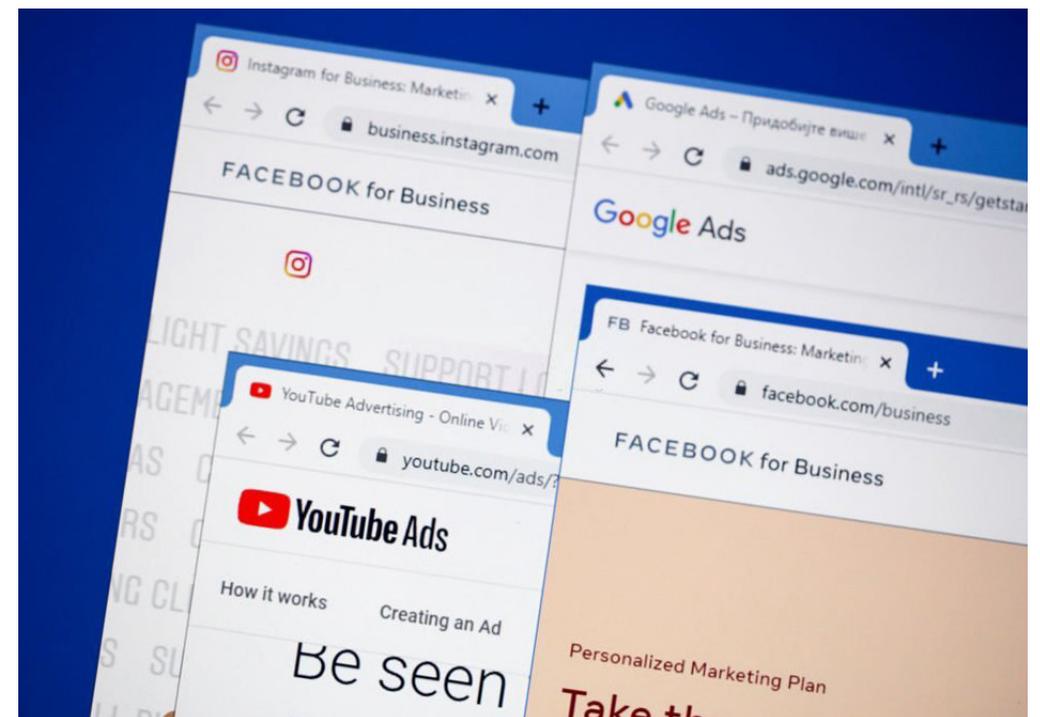

The pay-per-click model is primarily based on keywords. For example, in search engines, online ads (also known as sponsored links) appear only when someone searches for a keyword related to the advertised product or service. Therefore, companies rely on pay-per-click research and analyze the most applicable keywords for their products and services. Investing in relevant keywords will result in higher clicks and ultimately higher profits.

The winner of an auction is usually determined by rank, not the total amount of money offered. The rank considers the amount of money offered by an advertiser and the quality of content. So, content relevance is just as important as bid.

As a PPC agency, we combine technology and creativity for increased visibility and sales boost, creating high-quality and efficient campaigns across search, display and shopping. We use the Google Marketing Premium Suite to seamlessly grow your audience across an extensive network of ad accounts.

Our Adwords PPC management services are not limited to campaign creation. Our PPC consultant will do real-time tracking and monitoring of your per-click marketing campaign performance with more growth opportunities.
